The Genre Rack

A genre is a category used to describe a work of art (writing, music, film etc.). In the world of books, genres include:

Historical Fiction: Stories that take place during a real historical event but feature fictional or a mix of real and fictional characters.

Mystery: Stories that feature detectives, the solving of crimes, or uncovering of a secret.

Science Fiction: Imaginative stories that may take place in the future, feature things that have not yet been invented, like a time machine, or take place on other worlds.

Horror: Stories that are written to frighten readers. You'll find plenty of ghosts, vampires, and other monsters lurking between the covers of these books.

Fantasy: Imaginative stories that feature magical creatures, characters with magical powers, or supernatural beings in fairy tale or mythic settings
